A New Motor Car Romance

BY

C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Authors of "The Princess Passes" and
"The Lightning Conductor"

ENTITLED

My Friend the Chauffeur

This charming new automobile romance, with its delicious comedy and unusually clever character drawings, is far more attractive than anything previously done by these popular writers. Four much-entangled love stories and a plentitude of bright descriptions of picturesque countries keep the interest at top notch.

This novel has not been serialized, and makes its first appearance in book form.

Cloth, 12mo. Six Illustrations. $1.50

A new novel by the Author of "Lavender and Old Lace"

MESSRS. G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS take pleasure in announcing that they will publish early in September a new novel by MYRTLE REED entitled

At the Sign of the Jack o' Lantern

A genial story of the adventures of a New York newspaper man and his young wife, who, at the end of their honeymoon, go to an unexplored heirloom in the shape of a peculiar old house, where many strange and amusing things happen. There is a mystery in the house, as well as a significant portrait of an uncanny cat. A vein of delicate humor, sentiment, and homely philosophy runs through the story.

SONNETS AND SONGS

By HELEN HAY WHITNEY

Author of "The Rose of Dawn," etc.

Mrs. Payne Whitney is a daughter of the late Secretary of State, John Hay, and her poetical ability is well known. This collection contains twenty-six love sonnets, together with other short poems, all of which are notable for their beauty of conception, natural charm of expression, and simplicity of presentation.

This volume is undoubtedly the most notable publication of the year in the realm of poetry.

Post 8vo, ornamented cloth, gilt top, printed on fine antique deckelled edge paper, $1.20 net

THE COMING OF BILLY

By MARGARET WESTRUP

Author of "Elizabeth's Children," etc.

A delightfully humorous story with Billy as the hero, all unconscious of his honors. Billy is every inch a gentleman, but a boy to the core. He comes from India to live with his four maiden aunts in a small English village. His arrival throws the genteel old maids into a flutter, their only knowledge of boys being based upon their uncertain recollections of a generation ago. The resulting complications, including a charming romance, are various and delightful. A second "Helen's Babies."

Post 8vo, ornamented cloth, $1.25

Preliminaries of the Revolution

(Volume VIII. American Nation Series)

By Professor GEORGE ELLIOTT HOWARD

University of Nebraska

This volume covers the constant struggle of the colonists with England for their legislative and commercial rights, and their continual efforts to throw off the trammels of British power—the long resistance which developed their ultimate strength. Professor Howard aims to show what the issue really was, and why people who had lived under one general government for a century and a half could no longer get on together. He points out the long antecedent causes tending to independence, showing how the colonists had been unconsciously preparing for their larger freedom. The volume gives the history of the Stamp Act, Writs of Assistance, etc., and covers the years between 1763 and 1775.

With Portraits, and Maps in Color and Black and White. Frontispiece Portrait of Samuel Adams. Crown 8vo (Library Edition), $2.00 net; (University Edition), $2.00 net

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. FISHER UNWIN will publish shortly a biography of George Eliot by William Mattram, first cousin of the great novelist.

AMERICAN CODE COMPANY will publish late in September a Spanish translation of A B C Code, fifth edition. Orders received before September 15 will be billed at $6, less 10 per cent. After that date price will be $8, postage extra.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY, of Philadelphia, will publish shortly a new, revised edition of "The History of the Society of Friends in America," by Richard H. and Allen G. Thomas; also, "Only a Grain of Sand," by Charles M. Taylor, Jr., described as "a fanciful autobiography of a grain of sand," which will be one of the series containing "Crankisms," etc., and will have illustrations by Clare Victor Dwiggins.

A. WESSELS COMPANY have made arrangements to bring out in their series of popular copyright books "The Castaway," by Hallie Erminie Rives, with eight illustrations by Howard Chandler Christy; also, "The Grafters," by Francis Lynde, illustrated by Arthur I. Keller. They will bring out next month "Contrite Hearts," by Herman Bernstein, author of "In the Gates of Israel," a strong dramatic story of Russian Jewish life.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish on September 6 Myrtle Reed's new novel, "At the Sign of the Jack o' Lantern." It is the genial story of the adventures of a New York newspaper man and his young wife, who, at the end of their honeymoon, go to an unexplored heirloom in the shape of a peculiar old house, where many strange and amusing things happen. The book will be uniform in style with the author's popular "Lavender and Old Lace."

FOX, DUFFIELD & Co. have ready a new book by Wallace Irwin, entitled "At the Sign of the Dollar," illustrated by E. W. Kemble. This is a book of racy American verse, containing "Niagara Be Dammed," "To the Pure All Food is Pure," with many other already popular poems and others sure of equal popularity. Later the house will issue "Verses for Jock and Joan," by Helen Hay; "Double-darling and the Dream Spinner," stories for children, by Mrs. Candace Wheeler; "More Adventures of the Happy Hearts Family," by Virginia Gerson; "More Misrepresentative Men," consisting of new verses on celebrities by Captain Harry Graham; and a new and larger edition of "The Fusser's Book," by Anna Archbald and Georgina Jones.

THE REV. DR. JOSEPH H. BAUSMAN, Rochester, Pa., has just brought out his "History of Beaver County, Pennsylvania, and its Centennial Celebration." The work is in two volumes, fully illustrated with portraits, pictures of historic places, maps, facsimiles of historic documents, etc., and is a distinct contribution to the history of Western Pennsylvania. Beaver County lay in the track of the earliest of the French and English explorers of the Mississippi Valley, and was the scene of the heroic labors of the early missionaries—Jesuit and Moravian—who built their stations on the Beaver River, and is full of historic interest. Dr. Bausman spent years in preparing the work and dug deep for his information. It is brought out in two editions—in cloth and in full morocco.

A story of school life and football. The young hero is a typical American boy, who has lived abroad with his parents for several years, and while proficient in modern languages, is almost entirely ignorant of the classics. His place in the school he enters, therefore, brings him into contact with both the upper and lower classes, and he makes odd friendships. The broadening of his character under his experiences with his schoolmates is well illustrated. The leading arguments for and against football are introduced.
- Eggleston, G: Cary. A daughter of the South: a war's-end romance; il. by E. Pollak. Bost., Lothrop Publishing Co., [1905. Ag.] c. 403 p. D. cl., †$1.50.
A romance of the last months of the Civil War, when the Mississippi was again opened to navigation. A refugee Southern girl whose family have all perished in the war and who is herself reduced to the verge of starvation is rescued by a young Kentuckian, engaged in buying cotton along the river banks. He conveys her on his steamboat to his sister's home in Cairo, Illinois, and thereafter is the means of uniting her with her only surviving brother, for all of which he receives his reward. There are descriptions of lawless speculators and plundering merchants, who made the most out of the United States government and the ruined Southerners.

Erckmann, Émile, and Chatrian, Alexandre. Waterloo; abbreviated and ed., with introd., notes, vocabulary and composition exercises, by V. E. François. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1905. c. 11+226 p. maps, S. cl., **40 c. net.

This text was selected because of its historical interest, its unpretentious style and its easy vocabulary. It may be recommended as a first reading book in colleges and for those pupils in secondary schools who have already studied Latin or German and as a second reading book for all others. The book contains the parts of the original story which especially deal with the battles of Ligny and Waterloo.

Galbreath, C: Burleigh. Benjamin Russel Hanby, author of "Darling Nelly Gray." Columbus, O., Press of F. J. Heer, 1905. c. 43 p. il. O. pap., 50 c.

A biographical sketch of Benjamin Russel Hanby, the author of the words and also the composer of the music of "Darling Nelly Gray," a negro song, that was very popular before and during our Civil War. The sketch first appeared in the Quarterly of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society.

Gannett, H.; Garrison, Carl L., and Houston, Edwin Ja. Commercial geography. N. Y., Amer. Book Co., [1905. Ag15.] c. 6+30 p. O. hf. leath., $1.25.

"It begins with a study of the influence on industrial progress of climate and topography, of social conditions, of manufacturing and transportation facilities and of financial conditions, giving due weight to each as a factor in economic development. . . . Then beginning with the United States, the student studies in greater detail the actual conditions existing in the principal countries of the world and the forces that are operating to the continuance or change of such conditions. The relations of the various industries to one another, and their location in different parts of the world, are shown graphically by maps and by percentage diagrams or tables, while definite quantities are given in tables at the end of the book."—Preface.

Kellogg, Vernon Lyman. American insects; with many original il. [col. pls.] by Mary Wellman. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1905. c. 7+674 p. O. cl., **$5 net.

Written to foster an interest in insect biology on the part of students of natural history, of nature observers, and of general readers; the work provides in a single volume a general systematic account of all the principal groups of insects as they occur in America, together with special accounts of the structure, physiology, development and metamorphoses, and of certain particularly interesting and important ecological relations of insects with the world around them. Systematic entomology, economic entomology, and what may be called the bionomics of insects are the special subjects of the matter and illustration of the book.—Prefatory Note.

The writer has studied the theories of spiritualism in all the lands of the world. He describes the beliefs held about demons, obsessions and influences. He believes a new time is at hand and that our spiritual lives will be affected more and more by "the principles of a wiser-world brotherhood, one uplifting aim, altruism; one all-embracing religion, the religion of love."

The author holds the theory of vaccination to be untenable and its practice beset with severe physical danger. But he is specially bitter against the legislation that makes this law compulsory and robs free-born citizens of the right to refuse to comply with a practice in which they have no faith. He classes vaccination with all other forms of ignorance and superstition.

The little Canadian town of Waterloo is the scene. The son of a sour old village miser with the soul of a poet fights many unpleasant happenings before he wins the girl who has been so good an influence in her circle. In the little village of Waterloo the future writer was quite alone in his search for the ideal, but he came out conqueror in the "Greater Waterloo."

signed to indicate a general method of presentation, variable in detail at the will of the individual teacher. Each chapter, it will be evident, presents not the material for any fixed number of class recitations, but rather a single subject, divisible according to the available time, the capacity of the students, and other practical considerations."

Dating from the assassination of Von Plehve, the Minister of the Interior, on July 28, 1904, this work tells of the revolution that is at present rending the Russian nation. The acts of the executive that for years have been leading up to the general dissatisfaction are critically examined and fairly judged and presented. Vigorous and truthful pictures are given of the present Czar, and his ancestors, and of all the leading men of Russia. A minute analysis of Baron de Witte's character and career is rich in interest.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AUGUSTA, GA.—The Richards & Shaver Company has sold its stock of books, stationery, etc., to Julia B. Richards and Etta B. Smith. The Richards & Shaver Company will continue its business of lithographing, book binding and the manufacture of rubber stamps. The Richards Stationery Company, which succeeds to the book and stationery business of the Richards & Shaver Company, has filed articles of incorporation with a capital stock of $10,000, all paid in, and with rights to increase this to $25,000.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Edward J. O'Malley, who has been with Henry Malkan for several years, has opened a bookstore at 81 Broadway. He would deem it a favor to have the trade forward catalogues.

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA.—A. H. Waterman & Co., booksellers, have been succeeded by Holmes & Holmes.

EL RENO, OKLA.—L. C. Van Ness has sold his book business to W. M. Stolz.

MOULTRIE, GA.—F. M. Welch, bookseller, has been succeeded by H. D. Woolard.

PITTSBURG, PA.—The Joseph Horner Book Company, an adjunct of the Pittsburgh Methodist Book Company, has been dissolved. The company was organized in 1900 for the purpose of selling miscellaneous literature, the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church having made a rule that the church depositories should sell nothing but Methodist Episcopal literature. The Horner Book Company was in charge of Joseph Horner, J. O. Young and J. T. Horner. As few other depositories followed the rule it was deemed inexpedient to continue this branch.

PRINCETON, N. J.—The business of the University Bookstore, Princeton, has been taken over by a new concern which is to be incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey, with the firm name of "The Princeton University Store." The business, which will be under the management of R. C. McNamara, formerly with Hinds & Noble, of New York, will be run on a strictly co-operative basis, and will serve as a general supply store for the entire university.

WAYNE, NEB.—F. E. Jones, bookseller, has been succeeded by Jones & Felder.

YORK, PA.—Edward H. Keller, head clerk for a number of years at the Barnhart Book and Stationery Store, will shortly open a first-class book and stationery store on South George Street.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

KARSLAKE & Co., Hampstead, London, have brought out Part 3 of the second volume of their "Book Auction Records," from April 1 to June 30, 1905, containing 5615 records.

HENRY CAREY BAIRD & Co., Philadelphia, have just brought out a classified catalogue of books on Chemical Technology and General Chemistry, which has been prepared with great care and brought down to date of issue, August 15. The work will be found useful to the trade and to libraries. (15 p. 16°.)

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, 83 Francis Street, Back Bay, Boston, has reprinted from their Bulletin of Bibliography Alexander J. Rudolph's "Material for a Bibliography of Dr. Edmond Halley, (1656-1742.)" Mr. Rudolph in preparing this interesting bibliography of the eminent English astronomer, known to his contemporaries as the "Southern Tycho," was assisted by Eugene Fairfield McPike. (13 p. 16°, Bulletin of Bibliography Pamphlets, No. 14.)

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 26, 1905.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

FAKE "TRUST COMPANIES" AS BOOK AGENTS.

WHEN the State of Delaware, under the demoralization of Addicks politics, undertook to bid against New Jersey for the organization of new corporations and the resulting fees, it so overdid the matter in placing the management of the stockholders' affairs under these new laws beyond control or investigation by stockholders as to cause suspicion to be thrown a priori upon any corporation organized under this Delaware legislation. As one result, a number of "fake" corporations have been organized in Delaware, two or more of which are taking a hand in the book business in a manner which can scarcely be complimented as "questionable," replacing the proverbial real estate agent who "in the course of his business," etc., etc., had some books "thrown on his hands, which he was prepared to dispose of at less than half-price."

Bookbuyers, newspaper men and others have recently received letters or circulars from the "Shipley Surety and Trust Co.," of Wilmington, and the "Colonial Trust Co.," also of Wilmington—the letters personally signed in both cases as by Philip L. Garrett, secretary and treasurer. Both these "trust companies" have their offices, and, so far as we have been able to learn, their entire outfit in the desk of this gentleman, in the Church Building, Wilmington. Mr. Garrett is reported to be a young lawyer, hitherto reputable, somewhat interested in politics, and deputy judge of the municipal court. Of the "Shipley Surety and Trust Co.," Charles N. Thompson is named on the letterheads as president and Francis D. Baldwin as vice-president, while on the letterheads of the "Colonial Trust Co." Mr. Baldwin is named as president and Mr. Thompson as vice-president. Neither of these names appear, we are informed, in the Wilmington city or telephone directories. Mr. Baldwin is a resident of a rural district adjacent to Wilmington, not known to be in active business, but interested in politics, and recently a candidate for Insurance Commissioner; of Mr. Thompson's standing we have been unable to learn anything.

The "Shipley Surety and Trust Co." first sent out a seemingly personal letter, signed as by Mr. Garrett, to the effect that this company had been obliged to take over as security a valuable private library, from which it was selling books at a sacrifice, and of which a catalogue would be sent on receipt of a signed postal card. The signing of this postal card brought back, not the promised catalogue, but a local subscription book agent, who apologized that the library had already been sold—"for $80,000"—but offered to sell at half-price from a typewritten list of rare and special books, which he said were the property of the "Aetna Company of Boston," of which we have been able to learn nothing, placed in the hands of the trust company as receiver. The list included a few editions of which Anthony Comstock is chronically in search, some high-priced sets of standard authors, and such books as the King Edward Prayer Book, issued by the so-called "Cambridge Society," and "The Great Operas" and "The Drama," King Edward Edition, of which last we have more to say further on. This job lot of "unlimited numbers of limited editions" was offered at half-price, in great secrecy, "so that the publishers should not be informed of the sacrifice."

The "Colonial Trust Co.," which, "in order to secure a claim has been compelled to accept 52 sets" of our ancient friend, the "Makers of History," does business by a slightly different method, and the autograph signature of P. L. Garrett is varied accordingly. It will sell these 52 sets in the familiar fashion of one dollar after examination and two dollars a month for nine months, and is less insidious than its twin-brother corporation. Both these so-called corporations are evidently a new variation of old methods of subscription book houses to get a hearing, and if Mr. Garrett desires to keep reputation as a reputable lawyer he can scarcely afford to have himself used as a stool-pigeon in such business.

We publish these facts in response to inquiries, and as a warning to the honest book-trade and its customers against this latest of the Protean wiles of the book agent.

"The Great Operas" and "The Drama," referred to above, were originally exploited as coming from a society which was to use the profits to lobby through Congress a bill for the National Opera, and have since been published by the "Athenian Society, London," the "Société Universelle Lyrique, London, Paris, Berlin, Philadelphia," and under various publishing noms de plume. The prospectus for these works belongs in the humors of the book-trade; the "list of notable contributors" includes a wide range from Æschylus and Terence to Irving and Longfellow, and from Gluck and Beethoven to Humperdinck and Puccini, whose shades or selves would be rather surprised at the nature of their contributions, the books being simply the stories of the operas and dramas, lavishly illustrated, prefaced by biographical notices. Unfortunately, autograph certificates of good character had been obtained from several American ambassadors abroad, including Andrew D. White, Horace Porter and W. F. Draper, as well as from musicians and dramatists, by J. W. Buel, the projector of the work, probably in connection with a presentation copy, which illustrates a petty weakness of great men from which diplomatic representatives of the United States should certainly except themselves. It would be impossible to do justice to the diction of this work, as illustrated in the prospectus, by any description of our own, but incidentally it may be mentioned in quotations that "by these beautiful tales the great Queen Semiramis seems to come out of her golden tomb arrayed in the purple glories of her majesty to greet the modern world; the Queen of Sheba, that wonderful potentate of Ethiopia, sweeps into Solomon's Temple bearing treasure gifts, and the splendor and opulence of Juda's Palace is revealed" (sic). For further particulars reference may be made to the "Shipley Surety and Trust Co.," but the half-price terms should be mentioned only confidentially lest the feelings of the publishers of these works should be hurt. The list price, by the way, is only $400.

THE COMPLETE BOOKSELLER.

Because a man has shop to mind,
In time or place, since soul must live,
Needs spirit lack, all life behind,
All stray thoughts, fancies fugitive,
All loves except what trade can give?

IN quoting the above a writer in the London Daily Chronicle answers:

"No! most emphatically no! The complete bookseller has the dual personality of, let us say, Pierpont Morgan and Charles Lamb. He can discourse shrewdly upon the state of trade and the advantages of the net system, or handle a first edition with the mute reverence of the true bibliophile.

"As a tradesman he occupies a unique position. He is sometimes a poet or essayist, always a philosopher. The one thing to be urged against him is that he does not, as a rule, keep a diary or write his reminiscences. His tact and diplomacy are supreme.

PERSONALITY.

"Brought into a close personal relation with his customers, ('clients' seems a more fitting word,) he has opportunities denied to those of other trades. Personality, with him, counts for everything. In inspired moments he can forget he has 'shop to mind,' and will tell you of loves other than those 'trade can bring.'

"The real bookseller is both guide and friend, and it must be understood I always refer to the man of culture, who loves books for their own sake. He possesses a fine discrimination, and advises with a proper appreciation of the individual requirements of those who defer to his judgment. To recommend a wrong book is a grave offence, sometimes never forgiven. The man whose leisure is diverted by 'Ouida' is apt to resent, as a personal affront, the suggestion that he should try something by 'Ian Maclaren.'

"The decay of the bookseller is said to have set in. Mr. Hyde has killed Dr. Jekyll. The kindly being who once beamed at us through a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles is no more. In his place is a shrewd-visaged, bullet-headed little man who sells a book as if it were a bun. Never was there a greater error! The statement is one of those arrows of libel shot haphazard into the air. It would be as reasonable to accuse the Cabinet of thinking of remodelling the War Office on the lines of the Salvation Army headquarters.

THE ASSISTANT.

"There is said to be always a grain of truth in the most far-fetched statement. In this case the bookseller's assistant is the grain. His alleged enormities would fill volumes. He is well-meaning and desirous of pleasing, and his errors should be viewed with compassion. As a matter of fact they are treated with contumely. The opinion of the bookbuying public about the average assistant is uncomplimentary in the extreme. He not unfrequently knows little beyond titles, authors and prices—and not always these. There are, of course, the inevitable exceptions, existing apparently for the sole purpose of proving the rule, whatever that may mean.

"The reason for this mediocrity is obvious. Booksellers' profits are small; the salaries they pay are still smaller. Again, the old-fashioned apprenticeship has almost ceased to exist. The result is that the rank and file are now recruited from what is, educationally, a less well-endowed class. Even if a young man shows special adaptability for his work, he must be prepared to labor many years for a ridiculously inadequate wage before he can hope to obtain an important position in one of the larger houses. Thoughtful parents naturally think twice before placing their sons in a sphere of activity so unpromising."

OBITUARY NOTES.

ADOLPH GUILLAUME BOUGUEREAU, the famous French painter, died on August 20, at La Rochelle, where he was born on November 30, 1825.

MRS. MARY MAPES DODGE, the editor of St. Nicholas Magazine since its foundation in 1873, died August 21, at her summer home at Onteora Park, Tannersville, N. Y., at the age of seventy-four. Born in New York City in 1831, the daughter of Professor James J. Mapes, the well-known promoter of scientific farming in the United States, Mrs. Dodge spent all her life in a literary atmosphere. She was very talented for music, drawing and modelling, and also early displayed a keen taste for writing children's stories. While quite young she married William Dodge, a lawyer, but he died suddenly after a short time and left her two boys to bring up. In her first executive position she was associate editor of Hearth and Home, and came in touch with Harriet Beecher Stowe, "Ik Marvel" and other celebrated writers of their day who wrote for that magazine. She wrote for the periodical and her ability was soon recognized, and she was called to edit St. Nicholas with great public approval. Under her management St. Nicholas became famous in many lands and a great educational feature in the lives of the young people of the last generation. Mrs. Dodge was author of "The Irvington Stories," "Hans Brinker," the most successful juvenile of its day, which has been translated into Dutch, French, German, Russian and Italian; "Donald and Dorothy," "A Few Friends and How They Amused Themselves," and "Theophilus and Others," and she did almost equally good editor's work on "Rhymes and Jingles," "Baby Days" and "Baby World." Mrs. Dodge also wrote for grown people and has contributed to all our best magazines. One of her immensely popular sketches contributed to Scribner's in 1870 was "Mrs. Malony on the Chinese Question," which was used for recitation for years from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Mrs. Dodge attended strictly to work until within a few months. Her name was a household word among the children for many, many years.

COPYRIGHT IN RUSSIA.

THE question of copyright in Russia is being agitated in that country although the war is in progress, because one of the conditions of the Russo-German Commercial Treaty is that within a limited period negotiations with respect to the mutual protection of the rights of authors, artists, etc., are to be entered into. "It is contended by Russia," according to the London Academy, "that she is relatively by no means so great a sinner as represented by her neighbors, and that up till recently all Western Europe enjoyed the same literary freedom as Russia does now. France and Germany particularly take piratical liberties as publishers of foreign works. As a young people the Russians say that they have need of the support of their elders; but on the other hand France, whilst publishing vocal music with translations for English, Italians, Germans, and even Spanish, has none for Russian, except that now 'Carmen' is being printed in Paris with a Russian text. In Germany there are translations into English; but no Russian, except 'Tristan' for the pianoforte, which has been in existence for about five years. It must be concluded, says one writer sarcastically, that the Russians know all languages, and that a Russian translation is 'wasted money.' It is all one: Russians can sing in English if necessary. There is a dread that Russia may be tempted to enter into some treaties without a comprehensive understanding with all countries interested, for it is pointed out that the Berne convention was not adhered to without reserve by the various signatories, England for example, when she joined in 1887, having declined to recognize any retrospective action for the convention. That Russia must be at least as careful as the other nations interested is the view taken."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

KARL FR. PFAU, Leipzig, has begun the publication of a polyglot journal, the English title of which is The Booksellers' Guide of Correspondence. The first issue, edited by Mr. Pfau and E. Schirmer, is in German, English and French, and contains chiefly notices of new firms, changes in firms, and other similar business notices. The next issue will be in German, Italian and Russian, and other languages, we understand, will be used in future issues. The translations of the German text, while they may give the sense of the original, are not always happy, though they are funny. The price for each issue is 10 cents.

THE current supplement of the International Studio, just published by John Lane Company, The Bodley Head, New York, is entitled "Art in Photography," and is devoted to the best work in this country and abroad at the present day. The reproductions are of the high degree of merit for which the special supplements of the International Studio are well known. Each plate has been treated separately by such process as has seemed best suited to its peculiar needs. Some are printed in tint and there are one or two specimens of color work direct from nature. The prints are presented on full pages separately and number considerably more than one hundred. The notes accompanying the selection of reproductions from different countries are written by men whose knowledge of the progress of photography and whose interest in the work is well known. Charles H. Caffin writes on the "Development of Photography in the United States;" Clive Holland writes of the English, French and Belgian sections; the Austrian and German work is treated by A. Horsley Hinton, and the Italian by Dr. Enrico Thovez.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE father of Mrs. Pearl Mary Teresa Richards Craigie, ("John Oliver Hobbes,") has developed literary abilities in his grand-paternal days. He is about to publish a book which he calls "With John Bull and Jonathan." He describes this work as "a jubilee romance." John Morgan Richards is an American, the son of Rev. Dr. James Richards, of New York City, who has lived in London for many years.

JAMES DOUGLAS, president of the Copper Queen Co., New York City, is a well-known writer on scientific themes. Last year John Wiley & Son published his "Untechnical Addresses on Technical Subjects." As a native of Quebec, the seat of French rule in Canada, he has taken a lifelong interest in the events which ended with the victory of Wolfe. These he has pictured in a history entitled "Old France in the New World," to be issued in October by the Burrows Brothers Co., Cleveland. As the story proceeds it is clear why the land tenure and the colonization methods of France led to failure. Throughout the volume is displayed the constant strife betwixt authorities ecclesiastical and civil, a strife all the fiercer for the smallness of its theatre. Incidentally Mr. Douglas shows how the Church of Rome laid in Canada the foundations of an influence unshaken to this day, not only in the Province of Quebec, but in the wider arena of Dominion politics, where that Province holds the balance of power. Quebec in the old days was the focus not only of religious and military life, but the centre of trade, of exploration, of social festivity. All these come into Mr. Douglas's canvas to form a picture faithfully recalling scenes as picturesque and actors as forceful as are known to the history of America.

THERE has recently been published privately at Washington a loving "Memorial of John Henry Boner," compiled and edited by Marcus Benjamin. Boner, one of the "sweet singers" of the South, was born in 1845 at Salem, N. C. He became a printer and then journalist, and was connected with the newspaper of his native town and with that of Asheville. After the war he identified himself with the Republican party, and for a time was chief clerk of the North Carolina House of Representatives. He next went to Washington, where he served in the Government Printing Office first as compositor and then as proofreader. When the Democrats returned to power Boner was among the first to be discharged on the ground of offensive partisanship. While in Washington he published his first volume of poems, "Whispering Pines," which met with instant favor. This was followed by another volume, "City Sonnets." After his dismissal from the Government service he became a member of the "Century Dictionary" staff, serving for a time also as literary editor of the New York World. During the years 1892-4 he was connected with the editorial staff of the "Standard Dictionary," and when that neared completion took charge of The Literary Digest. Ill health obliged him in 1897 to seek a change of climate, and he returned to Washington, where, in 1900, through the influence of some of his friends, he secured his old position in the Government Printing Office. But it was not for long. In 1903 he was laid away to rest first in a cemetery in Washington and finally in the old Moravian God's acre in his beloved Salem. The "memorial" is handsomely printed and contains several portraits of Boner and other illustrations.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

WE regret that by a slip of the pen undetected in proofreading in the Educational Catalogue "Brown's First Lessons in Language and Grammar" appeared as published by W.P., instead of W.O., which is the proper abbreviation for William Wood & Co.

THE success of May Sinclair's "The Divine Fire" has called attention to her first book, "Two Sides of a Question," published by J. F. Taylor & Co. This latter book presents the author in a different light, but contains the finish and life so noticeable in her later work.

JOHN LANE COMPANY, The Bodley Head, New York City, have just issued in their Crown Library "Memoirs of Lady Fanshawe," wife of Sir Richard Fanshawe, ambassador of Charles II. of England to the Courts of Portugal and Spain, edited by Beatrice Marshall. A note on the illustrations is contributed by Allan Fea, an authority on the period of Charles II.

PETER G. EMMETT, a soldier now stationed at Fort McHenry, Baltimore, has in his possession volumes v. and vi. of that very rare old publication, "Letters of a Turkish Spy." Of the letters but seven volumes are now in existence—three in the British Museum, two in the Congressional Library and Mr. Emmett has the remaining two. The book was published in London in 1694.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in preparation a volume on "The Art of Italian Garden Design," by H. Inigo Triggs, with 100 full-page plates from drawings by the author and from photographs taken by Mrs. Aubrey Le Blond, as well as smaller illustrations and sketches; also, the last volume of the Abbé Constant Foudard's series of The Beginnings of the Church, entitled "St. John and the End of the Apostolic Age."

At a meeting of the Chicago Typothetae it was decided unanimously not to make any contracts on the eight-hour-day basis. As a result a strike of printers in the job offices represented by the association is expected. If a strike is declared about 600 printers will be directly affected, and if the trouble involves employees in other branches of the job printing trade, between 3000 and 4000 persons may be thrown out of work.

A. S. BARNES & Co. publish this week "Minerva's Manœuvres," by Charles Battell Loomis, illustrated by F. R. Cruger; in the week of September 1 they will have ready "The Heart of a Girl," by Mrs. Ruth Kimball Gardiner, illustrated by Charles L. Hinton; and in the week of September 8 they will issue "Lodgings in Town," by Arthur Henry, the third of the trilogy, which includes besides "An Island Cabin" and "The House in the Woods."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just issued a fifth revised edition of John Bigelow's "Life of Benjamin Franklin" in three volumes, for which has been gathered a surprising amount of new material, for it is only six years since the fourth revision appeared, which seemed to show exhaustive research to date of publication. Paul Leicester Ford was the discoverer of the most important new material added to the work—a letter written by Franklin before he retired from the editorial profession, which the author believes to be the original of the "rattlesnake story," and a satirical "Address from the Throne on the Repeal of the Stamp Act."

LAIRD & LEE elsewhere call attention to their series of dictionaries for libraries, homes, offices and schools and colleges, including the Library edition of "Webster's New Standard Dictionary," the High School and Collegiate edition of "Webster's New Standard Dictionary," and the Intermediate School edition and the Elementary School edition of "Webster's Modern Dictionary." These editions contain a key of pronunciation at the foot of each page, diacritical marks, illustrations, etc. They have just brought out a new novel by Opie Read, entitled "The Son of a Sword-maker." The author relates the life of a soldier of Rome in the time of Christ, and also gives a vivid picture of life among the Druids two thousand years ago, the heroine being a Druid princess.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY have just brought out two delightful little books by Annie Fellows Johnston—"In the Desert of Waiting," a legend of Camelback Mountain, and "The Three Weavers, a Fairy Tale for Fathers and Mothers as well as for their Daughters." Both of these stories originally appeared in the "Little Colonel" books, but they became such favorites that their separate publication was necessary. Two more charming and dainty stories it would be hard to find. Each is a piece of delicate imagery. They have just acquired from the Bobbs-Merrill Company the publishing rights of "Huldah," by Grace MacGowan Cooke, and will shortly bring out a new edition of this successful novel. This transfer gives the Messrs. Page the exclusive control of all the books by Alice MacGowan and Grace MacGowan Cooke, namely, "The Last Word," "Huldah," "Return," and "The Grapple," the latter to be issued in the fall. As is perhaps already known, the entire literary output of these two sisters is collaborative, without regard to whose name finally appears on the title-page—a literary partnership which has been altogether successful.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just published "Our Philippine Problem," by Professor H. P. Willis, of Washington and Lee University, and well known as an editorial writer and newspaper correspondent, who discusses frankly and fully the questions of our colonial administration; and "Russia from Within," a work of timeliness and great interest, by an anonymous writer, revealing vividly the secrets and weaknesses of Russian autocracy. The demand for Arthur Colton's romance, "The Belted Seas," and for Mrs. Fraser's "A Maid of Japan," has led to the reprinting of both these recent books. Henry Holt & Co. have also in press a new "French Reader," by Professor Rambeau, which is based upon the Passy-Rambeau "Chrestomathie Française," but is not like the larger work in phonetic characters. The matter of the new book is more vivacious and interesting in style than that of the traditional French reader, and includes selections in both prose and verse. The brevity of the book is in accord with the present tendency not to tarry long on a reader. Messrs. Holt & Co.'s eleventh volume devoted to Goethe will be a new edition of his "Iphigenie auf Tauris," edited by Professor Winckler, of the University of Michigan.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY's fall announcement list promises for issue before Christmas the following, among a large number of books of importance and interest: William Garrott Brown's "Life of Oliver Ellsworth;" the "Memoir of Archbishop Temple;" "Andrew Marvell," by Augustine Birrell, in the English Men of Letters series; Dr. Emil Reich's "General History;" "Vikings of the Pacific," by Agnes C. Laut; "Napoleon and His Times," the new volume in the Cambridge Modern History; the "Recollections" of William O'Brien, the lively and original M. P. for Cork; "Pre-Raphaelitism and the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood," by W. Holman-Hunt; "Venice," by F. Marion Crawford, illustrated by Joseph Pennell; the new and enlarged edition of Mrs. Roger A. Pryor's "Reminiscences of Peace and War;" "The Blackmore Country," by F. J. Snell; "A Wanderer in Holland," by E. V. Lucas; "India," by Flora Annie Steel, illustrated in colors by Mortimer Menpes; a richly illustrated edition of "The Garden That I Love."

by Alfred Austin; "The History of American Painting," by Samuel Isham; Vol. II, of the enlarged edition of Sir George Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians;" "A Self-Supporting Home," by Kate V. Saint Maur; "The Far East and the Great War," by B. L. Putnam Weale; "New Creations in Plant Life," an account of Luther Burbank's life and work, by W. S. Harwood; "Persia, Past and Present," by A. V. Williams Jackson; "Sporting Sketches," by Edwyn Sandys; a limited large paper edition of the works of Maurice Hewlett; an entirely new edition of "The Works of Benjamin Franklin," containing very much new material; "Nero," by Stephen Phillips; "Jesus Christ and the Christian Character," by Francis Greenwood Peabody; and a "History of Education," by Professor Paul Monroe.

THE WILLIAM COLLINS COMPANY, whose American branch is established at 27 East Twenty-first Street, New York, have prepared for the fall a large line of their Clear-Type Bibles. These are all printed from clear, readable types, whether in pearl or larger type, and are supplied with explanatory and other critical apparatus, colored illustrations, maps, etc. They are printed on India paper and on opaque white paper, and are bound in a variety of styles. They have also prepared several editions of the complete works of Shakespeare. One of these has an essay on Shakespeare and Bacon by Sir Henry Irving and a biographical introduction. This is illustrated with photo engravings and attractively bound in cloth, morocco limp and morocco padded, with round corners, red under gold edges. They have also an India paper edition less than one inch in thickness, bound in a variety of styles. A very attractive edition is their Illustrated Stage Shakespeare, in forty volumes of a handy size, with half-tone illustrations, bound in cloth and leather. Another neat edition is their Gem Shakespeare, printed on India paper and fully illustrated. This edition may be had in cloth or in crushed morocco, suitably boxed. In their New Standard Library they have eight books by popular authors, with from eight to sixteen full-page colored plates. Their Herriot Library numbers twenty-four popular novels by George Eliot, Cooper, Kingsley, Charles Reade, Dickens and others equally well known, printed from new clear heavy-faced type and adequately illustrated. In their series of Illustrated Poets they have the complete works of Burns, Longfellow, Milton, Tennyson and Wordsworth in three styles, ranging in price from $1.50 to $2.50. For the young people they have thirty titles in their Forward Series; twelve titles in their Young Peoples Library; fourteen new books in their series of Children's Toy Books; "Robinson Crusoe" and "Pilgrim's Progress" in their Juvenile Series; thirteen titles in their Happy Hour Series; and ten new books. These books are attractively printed and illustrated in colors.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on September 21 Mrs. Bayard Taylor's book, "On Two Continents," in which the author, the daughter of Hansen, the noted mathe-matician and astronomer and the wife of one of the foremost literary figures in his day, describes vividly the life of a German girl during the first half of the last century, her meeting with Bayard Taylor and their wedding, the arrival in America, the delightful home at "Cedarcroft," the St. Petersburg embassy, and so on. Many famous figures appear in these recollections of over half a century—the Brownings, Thackeray, the Stoddards, George William Curtis, Boker, Aldrich, the Warner and Cary sisters, Horace Greeley, Bryant, Stedman, Swinburne, Freytag, Bismarck, General Grant, and so on; and the book naturally contains the most intimate picture yet published of Bayard Taylor and his work. They will publish on the same date a new book by Max Müller, entitled "Life and Religion," which will contain much unpublished matter on two great ideas. The book has been prepared under the direction of Dr. Müller's wife. They will also publish next month "The Tree Book," by Julia E. Rogers, which will enable a novice to identify the trees, and also will cover the vast subjects of the uses of trees and how to grow and care for them. It combines in a most unusual way the practical with the imaginative point of view. It is a thoroughly useful, accurate, exhaustive manual, but it is written by one whose interest in trees is guided and increased by love. The preservation of our forests, the planting of new forests to replace those so ruthlessly destroyed, the part that every land owner can take in this process, and the best methods of taking his part competently—such are among the chief questions discussed fully. The illustrations have been photographed by A. Radcliffe Dugmore during a period of two years, and they form the most helpful series ever made of important details as well as of complete trees. The bark, the leaf, the flower, the fruit, the winter bud—all the distinguished features have been thus portrayed with photographic exactness.

PICK-UPS.

ONLY.—He: Have you had any time to read my book yet?

She: No—only the last few pages.—Life.

THE REAL TROUBLE.—"Has the circulation of the magazine gone up?"

"No," but the magazine has.—Life.

WASN'T WORTH WHILE.—"De Riter tells me that for a whole year he didn't write a thing that was worth while." "Yes, I believe it took him a year to write that latest novel of his."—Philadelphia Press.

PRAYER DIDN'T HELP.—A clever woman asked an English bookseller for a volume of Robert Browning's works. "I haven't got it, madam," replied the bookseller. "I make it a rule never to stock any books I can't understand, and I can't make head or tail of Mr. Browning. Can you?" Scarcely knowing whether to be amused or annoyed, but prepared to take another volume, the lady said, "Have you Præd, then?" "Yes, madam," quoth the bookseller, "I've prayed, and that don't help me."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

is certainly attracting considerable attention with the clergy. They are talking about it and discussing it so vigorously that every thoughtful person will want to read it.

In one mail alone we had orders to send copies to 23 clergymen.

Our newspaper advertising will commence about October first, and we will push the book thoroughly.

Do you want to share the profits of our advertising? Then if your order has not been placed with our travellers, send it to us AT ONCE!

Chronicles of the Little Tot

Mr. Edmund Vance Cooke's new book is being very enthusiastically received everywhere it has been shown. There is a humor, deep philosophy and pathos about his verses so intensely human that they appeal at once to the heart. His poems show a wonderful insight into child life and character.

A prominent editor said in reference to one of the poems: "I know of nothing better in American literature, and I have never said this before to any other writer."

You may be certain that many of your customers will want this book during the holidays. It is beautifully illustrated with many charming pictures in color by Bessie Collins Pease.

M. P. SHIEL

of "The Yellow Danger" fame has written a particularly brilliant story

THE LOST VIOL

which I will publish September eighth. Heretofore most of my publications have been along the line of adventure and romance, but I am making a radical departure in putting out which might be termed a novel of temperaments. Shiel handles his people with brilliant skill—some of them you may not like—but they are admirable foils to the ones you will.

THE LOST VIOL
